TERRIBLE DISASTERS.

They Occurred in the Mines of West Virginia.

24 LIVES WERE LOST

Of These Fourteen Belonged to a Rescuing Party Who Had Entered to Bring Out the Dead.

ONE EXPLOSION FOLLOWED ANOTHER.

Charlestown, W. Va., March 20.—As the result of the horrsble explosion in the Rush Run and Red Ash mines near Thurmond Saturday night twenty four men now lie stark in death in the two mines. Ten of these were killed in the explosion on Saturday night and the other fourteen were a rescuing party who entered the mine Sunday morning to take from the mines the charred and blackened remains of their fellow workmen. These latter were killed by a second explosion and the afterdamp. The first explosion seemed to shake the foundations of the mountains and the angry twin flash from the two neighboring drift mouths lighted up the heavens for miles around. Soon from the mining villages for miles up and down the river hundreds of people rushed to the scene of the dreadful disaster. The first explosion was caused by a "naked" flame coming in contact with the gas. The flames leaped from the drift mouth and set fire to everything in reach that was not blown from harm's way by the force of the explosion. The great drum by which the loaded cars are run from the drift mouth down the incline to the tipple and the empties drawn up, were blown from its moorings and down the mountain side 600 feet, while the drum house caught fire and was totally consumed. The cars that stood at the mouth of the mine were blown far down towards the tippl and much of the track of the incline was destroyed. The rails twisted and the cross tie slipped from their beds in the ballast were sent, scorched and charred, many yards away. The big fan that furnished air in the mine was so damaged that it was several hours before it could be started again.

After considerable time the great fan was repoired and the power turned on and it begandrawing 100000 cubic feet of air through the charnel house each minute. A rescue party was formed and about twenty men entered the mine in search of the bodies of those who had perished at the first explosion. The men explored the mines for two or three hours putting up brattices so that pure air should follow them wherever they went. Finally some of them came out and reported that the others were too careless in going forward faster than the good air was being supplied, carrying at the same time a "naked" light. At 3:45 another awful explosion occurred, caused by ithe gas coming in contact with the "naked" flame of a miner's lamp, and fourteen more souls were launched into eternity. This explosion was not so forcible as the former, but more awful in its effects, and was followed by a shorter, tinned tongue of flame, followed by a silence so deadly that it seemed physically painful with darkness impenetrable.

Mine Inspector Edward Pickney arrived on the ground Sunday and took charge of the rescue work. The second explosion again damaged the fan and Mr. Pickney will allow no one to enter the mine until it is working properly and a draft of fresh air is running through the mine. When this is done he will lead the rescue squad himself.

The names of those who lost their lives last night will not be known until the books of the operators are checked, and even then it will be impossible to identify them.

Odd Fellows State Convention.

One of the largest conventions ever held at Scranton will be that of the State Odd Fellows in May. It is estimated that almost 200 delegates will be in attendance. The sessions will open Tuesday morning, May 16th and continue for three or four days. In addition to the convention of the Odd Fellows the Rebekah assembly, the ladies' auxiliary of the order, which consists of about 250 members will also meet in that city.

MURCH—DAGGETT.

Early Morning Nuptial Event Celebrated in St. John's Episcopal Church.

A quiet but very pretty wedding event was celebrated at 7.30 Wednesday morning in St. John's Episcopal church when Maynard Hale Murch Jr., of Cleveland Ohio, was united in holy bonds of wedlock to Miss Leah Mildred Daggett, of this place.

Only the immediate families of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony which was performed by the rector, Rev. George Israel Brown. The bride and groom entered the church and proceeded up the aisle to the music of the wedding march as played by Miss Mary Bradley.

The bride looked very pretty and attractive attired in a handsome traveling costume of royal purple broadcloth.

There were no attendants and the bride was given away by her father Seth O. Daggett, of Tioga, Pa.

After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the Bush House where a splendid wedding breakfast was served at 8 o'clock. The table decorations were very beautiful, there being an abundance of American Beauty, white and red roses.

The bride received a large number of costly as well as useful presents from her many friends and admirers. She is a daughter of Seth O. Daggett of Tioga, and a niece of W. L. Daggett, of this place, with whom she has often visited.

Mr. and Mrs. Murch departed on the 9:53 train for Cleveland, Ohio, where they will at once take possession of a new, handsomely furnished home which the groom has already provided in Lakewood a fashionable suburb of Cleveland. The groom is a rising young business man of Cleveland being connected with the banking firm of Lamprecht Brothers & Co. of that city. During his frequent visits to Bellefonte, he has ingratiated himself into the good gracee, of a large number of warm friends, who will wish for both himself and bride, a bright and happy journey throught life.

Report of Committee on Pruner Bequest.

Messrs. Jenkins, Wise and Kirk, the Bellefonse representatives on the special joint committee appointed by the councils of Bellefonte and Tyrone, to confer upon the advisability of accepting the bequests of the late E. J. Pruner for the establishment and maintenance of a home for friendless children of the two boroughs, reported that the joint committee had met at Tyrone March 14, inspected the properties there, and held a session. According to a detailed statement furnished by F. M. Waring, who has been looking after the properties since Mr. Pruner's death, there is a net income of $25518.2 a year from these properties, which would be applicable to the maintenance of the proposed home. The figures furnished by Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, were nearly the same, showing the net income to be $2,341.72. The committee estimated the annual cost of maintaining such a home as follows: Matron, $360, servant girl, $308, man when necessary for rough work, $200; agent's commission for looking after properties, $200; fuel, $75; light, $36; repairs, $50; insurance, $6;—total $1135. This would leave a balance of $1,206.72 to provide for the children. The committee's report goes on to say:

"The committee agreed that the approximate cost of maintaining the children would be about $100 per year for each child, so that the present income would be sufficient to provide a home for at least twelve little ones, the idea being simply to provide a home where the children would be fed, clothed and housed and brought under good influences, and not carry through life the stigma that is attached to the inmate of a county home or alms house. On motion of Mr. Grazier seconded by Mr. Wise, it was unanimously decided; That the committee recommend to their respective councils, that an ordinance be enacted providing for the acceptance of the provisions of the will of the late E. J. Pruner.

Council on Monday night accepted this report and discharged the committee.

Mokle—Mayes.

At noon Wednesday a very pretty wedding ceremony was celebrated at the home of Jared Mayes at Lemont. The contracting parties were his daughter, Miss Belle Mayes, and Mr. John Mokle, the latter of Howard, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Shultz in the presence of a large number of guests. Many beautiful and useful presents were received by the bride which attest to the high esteem in which she is held. The groom is an industrious young man of Howard and is a marble cutter by trade.

A RECORD OF DEATHS

Quite a Number Have Been Called Away.

DURING THE PAST WEEK

Mrs. C. T. Gerberich, Andrew G. Curtin Jr., Robert Valentine and Others.

OBITUARIES OF THE DEPARTED

On Friday evening at ten o'clock the angel of death entered the Gerberich home on North Thomas street and called hence to her final rest, a loving wife kind and affectionate mother, Mrs. C. T. Gerberich Her death was sudden and unexpected and was a great shock to her family and friends. She had been in poor health for some time but of late was improving. Friday morning she was out walking for a little while and she seemed much better than usual and her family were greatly encouraged. In the afternoon however, she had a sudden sinking spell but rallied from it. About nine o'clock she retired to bed but was again seized with a sinking spell and gradually and peacefully passed away. She was conscious to the last and was surrounded by her family. Her death was due to a complication of diseases which culminated in an affection of the heart.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Miss Sarah Deck, was the daughter of Jacob Deck and was born in Berks county, Pa., June 4, 1840. Later the family moved to Lebanon county where on November 24th, 1859 she was married to Calvin T. Gerberich. Forty years ago they came to Bellefonte and have been residents of this place ever since.

Mrs. Gerberich was a faithful and conscientious member of the Reformed church and was interested in the welfare of her church. She was a woman of sunny and gracious disposition, a sympathetic friend and congenial neighbor. She will be missed not only by her family but by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

She is survived by her husband, C. T. Gerberich, and three children, Mrs. C. U. Hofler, of Philipsburg; Mrs. L. C. Wetzel, of Toledo, Ohio, and Harry of Bellefonte. One daughter, Anna died in 1888.

She also leaves a brother Henry J. Deck, of Philadelphia, and a sister, Mrs. Leah Miller, of Lebanon county.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house. The services were conducted by Rev. Ambrose Schmidt, of the Reformed church, assisted by Dr. H. C. Holloway, former pastor of the Lutheran church at this place. The interment was made in the Union cemetery.

ANDREW G. CURTIN JR.

On last Saturday Andrew G. Curtin Jr., died at his home in Torresdale, a suburb of Philadelphia, of heart disease. He had been ailing for some time.

The deceased was born at Roland, Centre County, March, 15, 1847 and was therefore 58 years of age. He belonged to one of Centre County's oldest families being a son of Roland Curtin, now deceased, a well known, iron master of the earlier day. He was also a nephew of the late War Governor of Pennsylvania, Andrew G. Curtin. As a young man he attended State College and later the Andelusia school in New Jersey. Almost all his life he was engaged in the iron business in some capacity or other. First under his father Roland Curtin and later as a member of the firm of C. Curtin & Co., they conducted the old Eagle Iron Works at Roland for years. For several years Mr. Curtin resided on Curtin streets in the Queen Ann brick residence which he erected. While residing here his wife died, this was about sixteen years ago. She was Miss Emma Kemble, of Philadelphia, and is kindly remembered by the friends here for her many good and gracious qualities. After his wife's death Mr. Curtin moved to Philadelphia and engaged in the iron business with Wister & Company. He was also with an iron firm at Bristol, Pa. For several years he was in the iron commission business in Philadelphia

Mr. Curtin is survived by two children, Howard and Marcia, and the following brothers, Col. Austin Curtin, of Roland; Gen. John I. Curtin, and James C. Curtin, of Bellefonte.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his home. Interment in Woodlawn cemetery, Philadelphia.

ROBERT VALENTINE.

In our last issue we made an announcement of the death of Robert Valentine, who for fifty years was actively identified with the iron industry in Centre county but who of late years has been living a retired life.

Robert Valentine was born in Bellefonte, Centre county, May 24, 1827 and had he lived until next May would have been 78 years of age. He was the son of Bond Valentine and his wife, Lydia Fairlamb. Bond Valentine was the younger brother of the Valentine brothers, members of the firm Valentine & Thomas, iron masters ot the earlier days, and for many years he was a practising lawyer in Bellefonte.

Robert Valentine was educated at the Bellefonte Academy and Haverford college. After graduating he entered into the service of his uncles at the iron works in this place. For several years he conducted the iron store owned by thsi company in Philadelphia.

In Philadelphia he married his first wife, Miss Mary E. Yarnell, a highly esteemed lady of the Quaker City, who died a few years later without issue.

In 1861 at the beginning of the civil war he enlisted in Co. H. 2nd regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers and served until the expiration of the three month service for which they enlisted.

In 1861 he was married to Miss Mary Natt, of Philadelphia, by whom he is survived with their two children. Mrs. Summerfield Bond and Miss Emily Valentine, all of Baltimore, Md.

About the time of the breaking out of the war he succeeded his father and uncles in a new partnership formed with his cousins in the iron business under the name of Valentine & Co.

He was one of the first original stockholders of the Snow Shoe Land Company which built the Bellefonte & Snow Shoe railroad. He was one of the originators of the Bellefonte Gas Company and also helped to establish the window glass factory at this place. The Bellefonte & Lewistown turnpike was another enterprise in which he was interested as a large stockholder. He was a large land owner and at one time some of the finest farms in Nittany Valley belonged to him. He was also for several years a stockholder in the First National Bank.

After the firm of Valentine & Company sold their iron works in 1886, it became the Centre Iron Company who continued in business for a short time and then failed. In 1887 there was a re-organization and the Valentine Iron Company was formed with Robert Valentine, as secretary and treasurer. This company operated the furnace until 1897 when it went into other hands, since which time Mr. Valentine has been living a retired life.

Robert Valentine was a life long member of the Society of Friends. He was a scholarly gentleman and was fond of studying the classics, keeping up his classical studies until the end of his life. He was a man of decided literary taste.

The funeral took place on Friday at 3 o clock from the residence of Miss Emily Natt on West Curtin street. It was attended by a large number of old friends and acquaintances, men from all walks of life gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to a man who was one of our best citizens, a good friend and kind neighbor.

The simple funeral services of the Society of Friends was conducted by John Thomas, of Baltimore, Md., who spoke touchingly of the many beautiful qualities of character possessed by the departed. The casket was fairly covered with beautiful floral tributes from friends and relatives. There was a large number of iron workers, former employees of Mr. Valentine, who attended the funeral in a body.

The active pall bearers were old employees as follows: William Gebret, Samuel Shirk, John T. Tate, John Flack, Samuel Rice, Harper Rice, James Miller and Jacob Shirk.

The honorary pall bearers were James Harris, John Blanchard, M. I. Gardner, Col. W. Fred Reynolds, William P. Homer, John Sommerville.

The interment was made in the Friends burial ground at this place.

Among those who attended the funeral from a distance were: Dr. and Mrs. Sommerville Bond, Miss Emily Valentine, Delacey Evans, Mrs. Murray Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. George Valentine, John Thomas and Edward U. Valentine.

OUR BORO FATHERS.

Held An Interesting Meeting on Monday Night.

ALL MEMBERS PRESENT

They Accept the Pruner Bequest and Will Draw up Ordinance to That Effect—No Change in Police Force for the Present.

MAY BUY A STEAM STREET ROLLER

The borough council met in regular session on Monday evening at 7:30 in the council chamber in the Public building with President Jenkins in the chair and the following members present: Kirk, Wise, Keichline, Derstine, Keller, Fenlon Seibert and Brown.

The minutes were read from the brand new minute book which clerk Kelley has purchased by order of council. There were no corrections so they stood approved.

Solicitor Fortney, Burgess Walker, Treasurer Barnhart, Water Superintendent Rine and Street Commissioner Shaughnessy were all present.

Chairman Derstine of the Street committee reported cleaning gutters, streets, etc.

Chairman Fenlon of the Water committee reported the cleaning of the spring

The other committees had nothing of importance to report.

There were two new applicants for the Police force namely, John H. Anderson and John Morrison. This makes six applicants, the other four being Amos Mullen, George Jodon, J. W. Rightnour Geo. Eberhart. The fire and police committee refused to recommend and left it in the hands of council.

The report of the committee on the Pruner bequest was read and accepted and the committee was discharged. The report recommended strongly an acceptance of the bequest.

Borough Solicitor Fortney had drawn up an ordinance accepting the bequest and it was read. There was considerable discussion in regard to whether council should accept bequest or not. Messrs. Keller and Seibert were opposed to accepting it without further investigation. Messrs. Wise and Kirk urged council to act in this matter at once. The income from the properties will be about $2,500 which would keep up the orphanage and provide a home for twelve children. There was some dispute as to what the income would be. The ordinance was finally accepted and a committee will be appointed to meet a committee of Tyrone council and report back to council not later than the 1st week in May.

The bond of James K. Barnhart boro treasurer in the sum of $25,000 was offered and approved. His bondsmen are James P. Coburn and William P. Humes.

The bond of Benjamin Williams, High Constable; in the sum of $100 was offered and approved. His bondsman is H. Y. Stitzer, Esq.

The contract for the rental of a part of the Phoenix mill by the Yeager Swing Company was offered and accepted.

Council is contemplating buying a steam street roller and instructed the Street Committee to look into the matter.

The following bills were approved and orders drawn:

Street pay roll	$ 27 88
Police pay roll	50 00
Water Works pay roll	88 63
Benj Bradley	3 75
Thompson & Bartley	1 00

Death of Mrs. Hettie Long.

Mrs. Hettie Long died at her home on the Isaac Tressler estate, near Linden Hall, Tuesday March 14th, after an illness of one month due to old age.

Mrs. Long is the last member of the Leech family, who were among the earlier settlers in Penns Valley. She spent almost her life on the Leech homestead, north of Linden Hall. Her age was eighty-eight years.

The deceased is survived by one son, Andrew Long, of near Spring Mills.

A BELLEFONTE GIRL'S TROUBLES.

Her Husband Disappears Under Peculiar Circumstances.

Monday's Philadelphia Record contained the following which will interest Bellefonte people:

Firmly believing that her husband has met with foul play, Mrs. Frank W. Waldron, of No. 1428 Ridge avenue, has about given up hope of again seeing him alive. Waldron started for work on Friday morning and has not been seen since by anyone who knows him. Two weeks ago yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Waldron came from New York and engaged apartments with Mrs. Edward J. Ostertag, at the Ridge avenue address, since which time he has been following his occupation, which was that of fastening blocks of wood to bulk windows to represent broken glass as an advertising scheme.

Just where he intended going when he left home on Friday morning he alone knew, as his business took him all over the city and he seldom acquainted his wife with his daily plans. The missing man is about 31 years old, of dark complexion and was neatly dressed.

Mrs. Waldron is a daughter of James L. McCafferty, a hotel proprietor of Bellefonte, Pa. Three years ago Waldron was a traveling salesman for a Boston firm and frequently visited McCafferty's hotel, where the young couple fell in love. As Mrs. Waldron, then Bessie McCafferty, was not yet of age her father would not consent to their marriage. Two months later, on her twenty-first birthday, she eloped with Waldron and soon received forgiveness and a parental blessing.

Waldron complained on Friday morning of a slight stomach trouble, but as he left the house he said: "Good bye, my dear, don't you worry, I'll be all right soon." At the time he had all of their money with him, amounting to a trifle over $31. All his wife has to remember him is some clothing and a small photograph.

Mrs. Ostertag, the landlady, yesterday spoke highly of the missing man. "He was a perfect gentleman in every way and had no bad habits. There was no unhappiness between them and they were like two children." Mrs. Ostertag will give Mrs. Waldron a home as long as she wishes to remain with her.

Taxation in the State.

A statement has been prepared by Auditor General Snyder, based upon the returns for the year 1903, showing, in a condensed form, the amount and sources of the revenue and objects and purposes for which it has been expended by the state. It is intended by the auditor general to demonstrate by this statement that the burden of state taxation is not so great as the people have been led to believe. The statement shows that the proportion each individual paid directly to the state in personal tax in 1903 was 17 cents. In return for this, he received as his proportion of personal property tax and the benefit of money given by the state to schools, charities, institutions, etc., a sum equal to $2.34. This conclusion was reached on the basis of a population in 1903 of 6,500,000 and a vote of 1,100,000.

Bicycle in Switzerland.

According to the British Consul in Switzerland it would appear that our cycle manufacturers have a fair field for trade in this country. During the last five years nearly 74,500 machines, representing a value of ₱655,000 have been imported into Switzerland, of which 40,500 came from Germany, 12,000 from France, 6,000 from the United States, and 1,700 from the United Kingdom. The imports are increasing yearly, last year's total of 17,170 machines being the highest. Some years ago the imports of British bicycles were fairly good, but during the last eight years they have been dwindling, owing to the prices being too high. The present prices ought to be low enough even for the Swiss.—London Engineer.

Funeral of Joseph Beezer.

The funeral of the late Joseph Beezer took place Friday morning at 10 o'clock from St. John's Catholic church. There was a large attendance of sorrowing friends and relatives and the services were very impressive. They were conducted by Rev. P. McArdle, pastor of the church, who spoke very eloquently of the good qualities of the departed.

The casket-bearers were Michael Hazel, and Geo. Beezer, of Bellefonte; Ed. Beezer, of Peale; G. Beezer, Al Hartle and Alfred Beezer, of Spring Creek.

The interment was made in the family burial ground in the Catholic cemetery.

A DENSE FOG.

London had broken its own record. For three whole days a dense fog had lain on the town like a dense charity blanket. Traffic in the streets and on the railroads had been in a state of impotent chaos. Business men got to their places of business little before it was time to close for the day. Society, venting its spleen upon the climate of England in picturesque language, remained at home, or ventured as far as the nearest club and devoted its days and nights to bridge. Theatres closed because even deadheads scoffed at the offer of seats, and the only people who regarded the fog as an ill wind, to speak Hibernially, were pickpockets and martyrs of asthma.

It may be said that on the third day there was one man, at least, in London, who cared not a jot whether it was wet or fine, clear or foggy, and that was Everard Heswell, the man who had stroked the Oxford boat in the last race. The reason of this sublime indifference was not far to seek. Haswell was in love. And when a man is in love he does the most foolish as well as the most irremediable things in his life—among them proposing and being accepted. For the first time during those three regrettable days Haswell had found his way to the steps of Maggie Weybourne's house. It was in Berkeley Square. It might, for all he could tell, for the little that could be seen of it be any other square—or, for the matter of that, it might not have been a square at all, but a circle or an oblong. He had discovered 81B five times, but he had not managed to pump up sufficient pluck to ring the bell and march in to bully Miss Weybourne into being his wife. From little things that she had said loudly with her eyes during a visit to Oxford he had felt certain that she loved him. But from little things that she had left unsaid since he felt equally certain that she didn't.

He had groped his way about for some minutes when suddenly he stumbled into a slight figure muffled to her eyes.

"I—I beg——," he began.

The muffled figure raised her hands beseechingly. "Take my purse, take my bangles, take my rings; but oh, don't, don't take me!"

With a queer feeling that he had heard the voice before, Heswell peered into her face. "I don't go in for making collections either of jewelry or young women. I haven't the least intention of making myself obnoxious. I bumped you, I am afraid, but, I hope, not severely. Good morning, or good afternoon, or whatever it is."

He could hear the girl crying softly. He imagined that she was a girl; he could see nothing of her face. "It's hopeless; utterly hopeless!" she sobbed. "I shall never, never get home—n-n-never!"

Heswell had determined to go to his club and there write a passionate appeal to Miss Weybourne. His ancestors had, however, entered the lists against Brian de Bois-Guilbert, and the little knighthood that modern life had left in him broke into flower at the sound of a woman's tears.

"I will do my best to guide you home, if you will let me," he said.

"It's very kind of you," she said "but—"

"Don't worry about your bangles and rings," said Heswell. "Honestly, I don't care tuppence about 'em."

The girl was still uncertain. "Thank you so much!" she replied. "At any rate, it's a great relief to know that. Perhaps you can tell me where we are now?"

"Sahara, most likely; or Trafalgar Square, perhaps."

"But I want to find Berkley Square," she went on, still examining him as closely as she dared. "Do you know Berkeley Square?"

Heswell uttered a kind of laugh, "Just a little!" he said, in what is generally described as a bitter tone. "When 'm not actually hangin g on to the bell o 81B——"

"81B!" cried Miss Weybourne. She had recognized the man she had been in love with for almost three months and who was her ideal of all that an Englishman should be. She was about to tell him who she was when a sudden thought seized her. At Oxford she had been quite certain that he had loved her. Since then she had seen him in London and had not been quite so certain. It was obvious that he was in a more dismal mood than usual. Being a young woman who had enjoyed her first season for all that it was worth, and who had not gone about with closed eyes, she well knew that when men are in dismal moods they are bound to confide in the first young woman they meet. She therefore determined to let him see her home under the impression that she was a stranger. She drew her fur more closely over her mouth "So you know 81B."

"Know it? I could find my way blindfolded to it. I have found my way blindfolded to it several times during the last few days."

"Really!" she said, with a quickening pulse.

"I'm on my knees in the bow window of the drawing window all day long," he added.

"Why?" asked Miss Weybourne with much polite interest.

They had been making their way slowly along "I see no end," said Heswell. "We shall be at the another if we walk like this.

She took it willingly, with a sense of comfort.

"Thanks, he said. "I was in Berkeley Square ten minutes ago. I don t think we can have wandered far.

Miss Weybourne felt a little more certain. "You're sure I m not taking you out of your way."

Heswell's depression became horrible. "I haven't got a way, thanks If I had I couldn't find it. I love this fog. It suits the frame of my mind exquisitely."

Just for a moment our young friend Maggie, who came of a race of sportsmen, wondered if it were quite fair not to tell him who she was. By the tone of his voice she knew that he was on the verge of making a confidence, and she decided it as fair. She had never pined for anything so much in her life as to get the real state of his feelings for her. "Yes?" she encouraged, "By the way, are you sure you are on the pavements?"

"At present, yes. I'm whacking the railings with my stick. Personally, I shouldn't be in the least surprised if we came to the edge of the earth pretty soon."

The girl gave a gasp. "And we shall go headlong into space? How awful! But I don't think your geography can be quite right. My cabman put me down in Brook street, I don't think the edge of the earth is within the four-mile radius."

A misty form loomed under their noses. "Look out!" cried Heswell. "By Jove, it's a man! Hi, sir, can you tell me where——"

"Don't be an idiot!" was the bronchial reply, and the figure faded away.

"Some men are such gentlemen!" said Heswell. "Hard with your left! * * * Good. By Jove, we must have split the boat on that pillar-box."

Miss Weybourne was very comfortable, but she disliked tangents.

"I wish we knew where we were," she said with a touch of petulance. "We shall arrive eventually, I suppose."

"Do you mind my saying," asked Heswell, "that your voice is rather like the most delicious voice the world has ever heard?"

"Not at all," she replied, not in the least afraid of blushing. "Delighted, I'm sure. But we're off the path."

"You're the same height, too," he said.

"As the owner of the most delicious—"

"How very jolly!" She began to be afraid that he would discover her identity. A sudden fright took possession of her, Is that Berkeley Square, do you think?"

"It's pretty certain to be," he said, with a kind of fatalism.

"Why?"

"When I'm anywhere it's generally Berkeley Square. I go out to ride in the morning and find myself in Berkeley Square. I wire to my mother and say I'm coming to tea at 4, and find myself at 4:10 at Berkeley Square. I take seats for a theatre and agree to dine first at the Carlton and find myself at the moment when the curtain is ringing up in Berkeley Square Oh, yes, this is Berkeley Square! It's inevitable. * * * Forgive my verbosity. It's a novel thing to confide in some one one has never seen before and will never see again."

"Is it?" asked Maggie, now quite perfectly certain. "Don't you think it would be as well for you to finish confiding in me? For instance, why do you find yourself so often in Berkeley Square? In short, why Berkeley Square?"

"Oh, the old, old reason, you know!" he replied, with a weighty attempt at lightness. "The love of an idiot for an angel. Every man has his Berkeley Square."

"And every woman has her idiot who is the sanest man in the world," she said enthusiastically. "I agree with love. And, for that reason, I should advise you once more to go to Berkeley Square."

"I shall go fifty million times more."

"Yes," she said softly, "but by that time you will be an old idiot, and the house in Berkeley Square may have changed hands. No. Go to Berkeley Square today and say all you have said to me."

"I couldn't" said Heswell. "I haven't got the pluck. "Hullo!"

He looked up suddenly and gazed around him.

"What?" she asked.

"The fog's lifting. One can see the numbers of the houses. I thought so—I would have betted on it!"

"On what?"

"I have been going round and round, and have stopped as usual at 81B. Already the butler, frugal person, has turned off the electric light."

The wind that had crept up unnoticed had blown the greater part of the fog away. Heswell and Maggie Weybourne had been far too much occupied to see its gradual shifting. As they stood at the bottom of the steps it was possible for them to see one another plainly.

Maggie undid her fur and put up her face for an instant.

"Pretty well,' she said. "Won't you come in?

The fog in Heswells brain lifted, too. He caught hold of Maggie with the bravery of a coward. "Maggie!

She drew herself away with a little laugh and opened the door with her key. "Look out, she said. The fogs all gone—people can see. Come into the dark!—Cosmo Hamilton in the sketch.

LEGALIZED CRIPPLING

HOW, UNDER EXISTING CHILD LABOR LAWS, MENTAL AND PHYSICAL DEFECTS ARE MADE.

Eminent Physicians Tell the Result of Pennsylvania's Shameful Neglect of the Future Citizens—Statistics Taken From Official Records That Prove the Deductions of These Investigators.

Striking statistics are those compiled by the Pennsylvania Child Labor Committee which show the proportion of children whose mental and physical unfitness is traced to bondage of mind and overtaxing of body through long-continued and premature labor.

Dr. Charles Roberts is quoted as giving some striking results of the examination of 19,846 boys and men. Of these 5915 belong to the non-laboring classes of the English population, namely, public school boys, naval and military cadets, medical and university students; 13,931 belong to the artisan class. The difference in height, weight and chest girth, from thirteen to sixteen years of age, is as follows:

Height (Inches).

Age.....	13	14	15	16
Non-laboring class.....	58.79	61.11	63.47	66.40
Artisan class	55.93	57.76	60.58	62.93
	2.86	3.35	2.89	3.47

Weight (Pounds).

Age.....	13	14	15	16
Non-laboring class.....	88.60	99.21	110.42	128.34
Artisan class	78.27	84.61	96.79	108.70
	10.33	14.60	13.63	19.64

Chest Girth (Inches).

Age.....	13	14	15	16
Non-laboring class.....	28.41	29.65	30.72	33.08
Artisan class	25.24	26.28	27.51	28.97
	3.17	3.37	3.21	4.11

Dr. W. W. Keen, of Philadelphia, observes: "It will be seen, therefore, that individuals in the non-laboring class, between thirteen and sixteen, exceed those of the artisan class in height by from 2.86 to 3.47 inches; in weight, from 10.33 to 19.64 pounds, and in chest girth, from 3.17 to 4.11 inches."

Dr. Roberts comments upon this, as follows: "The contrast presented by the columns of figures representing the non-laboring and the artisan class, from the age of twelve to seventeen, shows the marked effect of social surroundings on the development of the body; the one class being retarded and depressed by laborious occupations and unsanitary influences, the other expanded and probably exaggerated by the prevalence of circumstances favorable to growth."

When a child becomes a wage earner it takes on the importance and authority of the grown-ups, whose authority it soon learns to dispute. The child in school is in its most natural, healthful environment, at work it is in an unnatural, artificial and dangerous environment.

To put children under fourteen years in factories or stores for ten hours a day or night, for six days or nights a week; to require boys of the same age to deliver messages, to go to and fro, between all sorts of people and all sorts of places, for ten or twelve hours per day or ten or twelve hours per night, for six or seven days a week, is to invite delinquency or even degeneracy.

Mr. Nibecker, the superintendent of the House of Refuge, at Glen Mills, Pa., was asked: "What proportion of your boys were school boys at the time of arrest and what proportion working boys?" His answer was: "I can give no proportion, for the reason that the school boy is such a rare exception with us. I can say out of our experience here that the lines of commitment and lack of schooling run parallel." "Were your boys, then, mostly idlers, or were they working boys?" His prompt answer was: "We have very few, if any, boys who were not working boys at the time of their arrest, or just previous to their arrest; that is, they belong to the class of working boys. Of course, some of them worked irregularly; they tried first one job and then another, found the work too hard—sometimes, too hard mentally; sometimes, physically. A large number of the boys are illiterate."

The April Smart Set.

In the novelette which opens the April Smart Set, Grace MacGowan Cooke has struck an entirely new note in fiction. It is a story of the West, so saturated with the atmosphere of that part of our country and so photographic in its depiction of ranch life that it will take high rank among the best tales of that class; yet it is more as a character study that "The Red-Headed Woman" will win praise. The heroine is the most original, the most human, the most refreshing woman who for a long time has stepped from a printed page. There is no reader who will not be fascinated by her vagaries and interested in her remarkable career.

The short stories in this number cover a wide field. First of all, there is a wonderfully graphic tale by a new writer, Julia Lawrence Shafter, which she has called "A Realist." In it, with consummate art, she analyzes the intricate character of a forlorn criminal who has become a subject of interest for a novelist in search of "copy." This story alone would make any magazine worth while, but there are other excellent tales, notably by William R. Lighton, who tells how a dead love was resurrected in "The Shadow of a Shadow;" by Mrs. Henry Dudeney, who writes a powerful English story of 1858 in "The Swift Ships;" by Arthur Stringer, who goes to the Canadian frontier for the scene of "In the Dusk of the Goddess;" by Guy Bolton, whose wit sparkles in "The Sign-Painter;" by Inez Haynes Gillmore, who contributes a delightful love story, "The Gods of Hunger," and by H. G. Dwight, who writes a charming story entitled "Susannah and the Elder."

Bliss Carman has contributed an essay to this number, "On Having Known a Painter," wherein he again reveals himself as a writer of exquisite prose.

The poetry is far above the average of magazine verse, and is written by such favorite authors as Edith M. Thomas, Clarence Urmy, Zona Gale, Madison Cawein, Arthur Davison Ficke, Nannie Byrd Turner and gouverneur Morris, the latter supplying another instalment of his inimitable verses, "Below Stairs."

The April Smart Set maintains its own high standard of excellence, and is remarkable for the note of variety which it strikes.

Study Life of Washington.

Probably never before in the history of the country was there so great need for careful study of the life of George Washington as there is now. With graft pervading our whole life, both political and business, it is well to reflect on the virtues of a man whose civic conscience was so sensitive and pure as to make it impossible for him even to accept pay as commander of the nation's armies. He had no thought except for the honor and glory of his country. His highest ambition was to serve her, not that he might make money out of the service, but that she might have the benefit of whatever abilities he possessed. He was so scrupulous in his relations to the public that he tried to avoid even a suspicion of interested motive. He never sought office. On the contrary, he shrank from it, both because he did not enjoy high place, and also because he had what seemed to us to have been a strange distrust of his own qualifications for it. No nation ever had a leader in a great crisis who was so pure, so unselfish and so unambitious.

Mrs. Patton for State Regent.

While considerable attention is given in D. A. R. circles to the coming election of the national head of the organization, it is of interest to note that a Clearfield county member is likely to be elected State Regent for the coming year.

For some time Daughters who are personal friends of Mrs. A. E. Patton, of Curwensville, widow of the late Senator Patton, have been wanting her to become a candidate, and as the desire spread farther and farther over the State among the members of the society it is understood that she will not oppose the proposition. Owing to her bereavement of some months ago she will probably not, however, take as active a part in the next election as she otherwise would.

Mrs. Wilbur F. Reeder, of Bellefonte, was elected last year, but resigned after a few months.—DuBois Courier.

No More Stomach Trouble.

All stomach trouble is removed by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gives the stomach perfect rest by digesting what you eat without the stomach's aid. The food builds up the body, the rest restores the stomach to health. You don't have to diet yourself when taking Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. J. D. Erskine, of Allenville, Mich., says "I suffered Heartburn and Stomach trouble for some time. My sister-in-law has had the same trouble and was not able to eat for six weeks. She lived entirely on warm water. After taking two bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she was entirely cured. She now eats heartily and is in good health. I am glad to say Kodol gave me instant relief." Vin-Te-Na... Means Vim.

It is a medicine that actually feeds the weakened nerves by enriching and purifying the blood. Each ingredient is of the highest medical value. It cures more diseases than any other remedy on the market simply because it gets right down to the source of nine-tenths of all diseases, that is, the blood and nerves. When the blood is made pure and rich and the nerves are toned, diseases disappear as surely as shadows disappear when the light is turned on. If you are rheumatic; if you have stomach, liver or bowel trouble; if your nervous system is going to pieces, Vin-te-na will cure you because all these troubles are caused by bad blood.

Beaten Warrior Disgraced!

Kuropatkin, Private Soldier's Idol, is Dismissed From the Service.

A VERY BITTER IMPERIAL REBUKE

THE ANNOUNCEMENT CAUSED A SENSATION

Santoupu, March 17.—The Russian detachments at Tie pass were on March 15 ordered to vacate their positions, and during the night retired in exemplary order, covering their rear. There had been fighting throughout the day. Before the withdrawal of the Russian forces the military settlement and such of the stores of fuel and forage as could not be removed were set on fire and destroyed.

The fighting on March 14 and 15 fell to the Second Siberian corps.

The Kineshemsko and Vayazettsky Red Cross nurses, including two Sisters of Charity, attended the wounded at the various positions, retiring just as the advance rear guard passed.

St. Petersburg, March 17. 1:50 a. m.—With the evacuation of Tie pass Wednesday night the Russian army abandoned the last strong hold in southern Manchuria and definitely turned over the section to the Japanese for the campaign of 1905. At last no other strategy is possible for Gen. Kuropatkin, in view of his scanty supplies of ammunition and stores, the shattered condition of his army and the wide enveloping movements which the Japanese have continued almost without a stop since the Russian defeat at Mukden. Nothing has been heard of the part which Gen. Kawamura's army is taking in these operations, but Generals Nogi and Oku, operating in the low hills of the Tie pass gorge were themselves sufficient to turn the shattered Russian army out of the fortifications which had been prepared with a view to being held by the army after it should have been withdrawn from Mukden.

The Japanese evidently are doing their utmost to accomplish the envelopment of the Russian army, which all but succeeded at Mukden, but General Kuropatkin, with the railway for a line of retreat, probably will be able to keep ahead of his pursuers. A constant succession of delay in rear guard encounters may be expected.

Military men here have but the haziest idea as to where the next stand will be made. Apparently there are no more fortified positions in readiness and the retirement probably will not stop short of Kirin or Kuantenchy on the railway line; and if the Japanese press the pursuit the Russians may retire beyond and up the Sungari river there to await new levies the mobilization of which will begin immediately in Russia.

The evacuation of Tie pass involves the loss of the coal mines in that vicinity which, with the Fushum and Yentia mines gone, is a severe blow. The railway shops at Tie pass and more supplies were sacrificed.

A further mobilization has been determ ned upon, and preparatory orders to quartermasters, etc., are already being issued; but the extent of the mobilization is not known.

No change in the command of the army in the Far East has yet been gazetted. One high military official told the Associated Press yesterday that to remove Gen. Kuropatkin at this moment would be "much liks trading horses in the middle of the stream," and that it would be better to give Kuropatkin a chance to get what is left of his army out of the claws of the Japanese before committing it to a new commander, who necessarily would need a little time to get a grasp upon the situation.

London, March 17.—From a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Sinmintin, descriptive of the fighting around the wall of Mukden, it appears that General Kuropatkin left for Tie pass on horseback on March 15, his staff following by train the next day. On March 8, Cossacks began looting in Mukden and, maddened with drink, committed the wildest excesses and robberies and killed numerous civilians. The Russian retreat from Mukden was well executed, until it was discovered that the cordon of Japanese in the rear, two and a half miles from town, wa nearly complete when the retirement became a flight.

St. Petersburg, March 17.—It is officially announced that General Kuropatkin will be replaced by General Linevitch as commander-in chief of the Manchurian army.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—With the Japanese hanging on the heels and flanks of the broken, defeated army, General Kuropatkin, the private soldier's idol, has been dismissed and disgraced, and General Linevitch, commander of the First army, is appointed to succeed him in command of all the Russian land and sea forces operating against Japan. The word "disgrace" is written in large letters in the laconic Imperial Order Gazette," which contains not a single word of praise and also disposes of the rumor that Kuropatkin had asked to be relieved.

The Russian military annuals contain no more bitter imperial rebuke. While it was known that the war council had already decided to supplant Kuropatkin, after the Mukden disaster, the decision to confer the task of saving the remainder of the army on Linevitch, in the very midst of flight, although bruited Thursday night came as a surprise.

Warsaw, March 18.—The news of the dismissal of General Kuropatkin was announced in special editions of the newspapers here Friday, and caused a sensation. The appointment of a new commander in Manchuria is taken as an indication that the war will be continued.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—1.50 a. m.—Decided anxiety is felt here regarding the fate of the army in Manchuria, under its new commander, no news of military developments the last two days having been received here. The only despatches from the front were the brief announcements Thursday that General Linevitch had assumed command and that General Kuropatkin was departing for St. Petersburg, which disposes of a rumor that the latter had committed suicide, and an Associated Press Changtufu dispatch filed the morning of March 16 and written at the station of Kaynan, which was then held by the Russians.

In this correspondent's opinion, no pause in the Japanese advance is probable for some time. The Russians are losing heavily in the rear guard actions and Japan's columns are reported to be pushing northward as fast as possible to complete the envelopment of the Russian forces. General Linevitch, however, will have a considerable accession of fresh troops in a day or two, the Fourth European corps being now at Harbin and departing southward. Military officials here declare that there are now 268,000 men at General Linevitch's disposal in Manchuria, and it is believed that this force will be sufficient to cause the Japanese to exercise greater caution in their pursuit.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

Items Which will Interest Both Employer and Employes.

An inspection of the telegraph system of the Pennsylvania railroad is being made by the new superintendent of telegraph, Daniel C. Stewart.

The construction of the big new freight station of the Pennsylvania railroad company at Fourth avenue and Huey street, McKeesport was begun Tuesday, the contract having been awarded to the Pittsburg construction company. The new building is to be of brick, two stories high and in oddition to accommodations for freight will contain office rooms.

The new coal tipple on the Pittsburg division of the Pennsylvania railroad at Gallitizin, has been put in use. A small railroad on which will run two dinky engines has been constructed from the Lemon mines to Gallitzin, a distance of three-quarters of a mile. A new hoisting apparatus has been installed at the mines. The new tipple is so large that, situated as it is between the east and west bound tracks, six engines can be coaled on each side and much time will thus be saved.

When persons travel, why do they chew more gum than at home? Does the excessive consumption arise from a desire to get in training for the proverbial railway sandwich? Or to match the click of the wheels as they pass from rail to rail? Or is it merely from a desire to be busy? Mr. Mackenzie, who superintends the gum machines in Sante Fe system waiting-rooms, declines to go back of the returns and philosophize. He is willing to say, however, that gum is a popular article in the Southwest. It keeps him busy supplying the demand at the 400 stations served. The net yearly revenue is a tidy sum. He estimates that in 1904 approximately 1,150,000 pennies were dropped into these slot machines by travelers who craved a piece of flavored pepsin or tutti-fruit, and this take no account of the sales made on Santa Fe trains by Mr. Harvey's news agents. It is difficult to compute the average distance traveled by the study jaws of the gum-chewing passengers, but it would be a good start on the journey to the moon "By gum" is the favorite ejaculation in that part of the country, and the Santa Fe is largely responsible.

Unknown Animals of Africa,

There are two animals practically unknown to the outside world. These are the pigmy, or Liberian hippopotamus, and the Derbian eland. The first named is just what its name implies, a pigmy hoppopotamus, differing from the larger and common variety in three respects only. In the first place it is much smaller than the common hippopotamus amphibius, being no larger than an ordinary fair sized hog; in the second place it differs somewhat from the common hippopotamus in the characters of its teeth, and in the third place, instead of spending its time in the rivers and lakes in large herds, it wanders about through the jungles singly or in pairs, much after the manner of swine in search of mast. Owing to the fact that it does not go in herds, and is hard to distinguish against the dark background of jungle thickets, it is an exceedingly difficult animal to hunt or find. If anything the legs of the dwarf Liberian hippopotamus are a trifle longer, in proportion, than are those of the common river hippopotomus, says "Outing."

Next to the Liberian hippopotamus the Derbian eland of West Africa, which the Mandingoes call "Jinke janko," is to day the least known of all rare and strange animals.

Even though Great Britain, France and Liberia own practically the whole of the northwest African coast, no specimen of the Derbian eland has thus far reached Europe or this country, and next to the okapi it is indeed the least known of all game animals.

Free Seed Distribution.

The idea that free seed distribution by the government is approved by the farmers of the country may need to be modified. Senator Platt, of Connecticut, in presenting to the United States Senate an anti free seed resolution passed by the Lynn grange of Hamburg, remarked: "I think the resolution represents pretty fairly the sentiment among the agriculturists in Connecticut in oppasition to the present Governmental distribution of seeds." If Connecticut farmers are in opposition, why should farmers anywhere else favor the system? Can it be true that only the Congressmen themselves want the seed folly kept up?—Springfield Republican.

Remington, The Open Door Artist.

Mr. Charles Belmont Davis, in Collier's for March 18, writes on the work and life of Mr. Frederick Remington, the famous painter and writer of frontier life. Mr. Davis in part says:

The real character of a man is usually to be found in his work, and this is peculiarly true in the case of Remington. The narrow streets and the ill-lighted flats of New York have no charm for him—he lives in the country in a big roomy house, and works in a big roomy studio, surrounded by the arms and the gaudy finery of the Indian who fought and who did not go to Carlisle. In the early summer he travels north to a little island which is all his own. But it seems now that the artist has a nice eye for real estate, and the town of New Rochelle is gradually encroaching on the view from his studio windows, and a millionaire has erected a palace on the very next island to his own. To the writer who is somewhat immuned to twenty-story office buildings, and honeycomb bachelor apartment houses, it would not appear that the artist was oppressed by the closing in of civilization, and that there was still ample space for even a big man to stretch himself, but Mr. Remington does not feel that way about it, and so he had decided to once more take up the trail. He is going to a big place of his own, where the commuters will not crowd him by winter or the millionaires by summer, and where he can continue to write and paint and model the history of the West—the West which he has already made his own.

Conduct of Japanese Soldiers.

The conduct of the Japanese soldiers is characterized by a war correspondent as almost incredibly faultless. The correspondent has lived in Tokyo for nearly a year and has met many thousands of soldiers on the streets and has not seen one drunken man, a quarrel or disturbance of any kind. "Good order, good discipline and good humor seem to be universally prevalent."

A woman worn-out, who never has to lift a hand for herself, who does not know the meaning of the word "worry"! How can it be possible? That it is possible is proved by the experience of many a woman who, because of sleeplessness, nervousness, backache and other womanly ills, becomes an utter physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I suffered for five years with inflammation which caused violent pain and often torture so bad at times that I could not be about to attend to my daily duties," writes Mrs. Julius C. Bell, of Bathroad, Kingston, Ont. "Life was simply misery to me and I did not know which way to turn for relief. Had tried doctors but found they did not help me. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—eulogising it in glowing terms. I decided to give it a trial and brought a bottle home. I am happy to say that after the use of the first bottle I felt so much improved I decided to take another and after that a third bottle. I have good reasons to be pleased, for I am to-day a well woman, work is easy and the world looks bright. I have perfect health, thanks to your medicine."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

TESTS PATIENCE.

The most patient Bellefonte citizen must show annoyance at times.
Nothing spoils a good disposition.
Nothing taxes a man's patience.
Like any itchiness of the skin.
Itching piles almost drive you crazy.
All day it makes you miserable
All night it keeps you awake.
Itch! Itch! Itch! with no relief.
Just the same with eczema.
Can hardly keep from scratching it.
You would do so but you know it makes it worse.
Such miseries are daily decreasing.
People are learning they can be cured.
Learning the merit of Doan's Ointment.
Plenty of proof that Doan's Ointment will cure Piles, Eczema or any Itching of the skin.
Read the testimony of a Bellefonte citizen.

A hotel man of Bellefoute, says: "I have used Doan's Ointment and know it to be all that it is claimed to be. I tried it for itching hemorrhoids and other skin eruptions and found it to be not only one of the best, but in fact the only remedy that ever gave me any relief., I was in constant torment for years with hemorrhoids and anyone who has suffered from this trouble will know how welcome was the relief I found in Doan's Ointment. It cured me in about twenty-four hours. I have not only used it myself but have recommended it in numerous cases and always with the same good results. I would not allow my name to be used as a reference if I did not know it to be just as represented. I got the Ointment at F. Potts Green's drug store."

EDITORIAL.

Oil has certainly lost its reputation for stilling troubled waters.

At one time cheese was supposed to demonstrate war strategy. It looks now in the East as though football had suggested the tactics.

There has been a decided drop in the mule trade, but since it is due to the cessation of war in South Africa there should be no kick coming.

A substantial little presidential boom for vice-president Fairbanks is already being inflated. It is still in the "who knows" period of its development, though.

It is said that the president offered Elihu Root that $100,000 job of digging the canal It is a singular fact that any man who is worth $100,000 a year is already earning it.

Doubtless Russia wishes she had adopted the policy to which we have just subscribed $100,000,000. Get a big navy when you don't need it so that you will not need it when you have it.

William Jennings Bryan has again lost his lawsuit and that fifty thousand dollars he could have used in his business. Bryan may, after all, be famous in history as the greatest loser "the world has ever known."

A bill to encourage matrimony has been introduced in the Illinois Legislature. A bill to discourage it is the text of Utah oratory. Will the States ever 'get together" on their marriage and divorce questions?

When domestic servants struck in Warsaw they were compelled to return at the point of the bayonet. There is some good left in a government no matter how much it may be denounced, that can control the cooks.

The example set to boodlers of state legislatures by the United States House of Representatives in its recent $190.000 mileage grab is one not likely to be overlooked. Small boodlers are proud of being found in such eminent company.

That Japanese jiu jitsu expert who is in a dipsomaniac sanitarium in New York knocked out everything but alcohol. The best athletes from John L Sullivan down, who have tackled it have generally not more than their match.

Confusion was thrown into the ranks of the Mother's Congress in Washington by a local lecturer who distributed an advertisement among them on his illustrated lecture 'To hell and back." Even though the tickets were only fifty cents, the return fare included, the good women refused to patronize the trip.

Tom Watson's magazine is out and a good many persons are out ten cents and are still undecided whether Mr. Watson meant to be funny or only happened to be so. It is hard to decide which when he describes W. R. Hearst as "a modest, silent man from New York," the victim of "shyness and silence."

A National Committee has been appointed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to engage in an effort to change the date of Inauguration to a day late in April. The plan will be laid before Congress and the Governors of forty-five States and territories have signified their desire to co-operate in the movement.

It is trite to say that this is an era of wonderful inventions, steam, electricity, ex-rays and radium, telephone, wireless telegraphy, but that most remarkable machine, the whirligig of time is the most remarkable and prolific in surprises. There is scarcely anything anywhere that may not be expected from it, for hath it not been said that there is nothing so iminent as the unexpected. Richard Croker the great boss of Tammany, on his recent trip to this country, suggested that the Democratic and Republican parties might unite in 1908 in renominating Theodore Roosevelt for the office of president of the United States. There are hundreds of thousands of people who remember that in 1900 Mr. Croker was violently active in the campaign in which Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate for the vice-presidency and that one of the properties of that campaign to influence voters against Governor Roosevelt was his representation as a wild man secured in a strong cage on wheels which moved about the streets of New York while the living caricature of the Governor yelled and showed his massive teeth and threatened with frightful gestures the crowds which gathered to watch him pass. No other tableaux vivants of the campaign appeared to please Mr. Croker like this. He would assemble his henchmen as the terrible monster passed and point to the thing behind the bars, roar with laughter and clap his hands with ecstacy. Now he suggests that both parties nominate President Roosevelt four years hence. Verily the whirligig of time is a wonderful machine and being unpatented the whole world can enjoy it.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Mar. 21st.

The Committee of Interstate Commerce will, it is announced, hold its sessions in Washington, beginning about the middle of April, to consider the subject of railway rate legislation which was also dismissed without action at the close of the regular session. Several members of this committee are among those who will sail in July with Secretary Taft's party for an investigation of conditions in the Philippines, so that it is not likely that they will consume many weeks in the discussion of railroad rates.

The triennial convention of the Mother's Congress held in Washington has come to a close and by Sunday all of these National Mothers will have returned to their homes again and become for the most part just plain, ordinary mothers again. A number of them have declined to remain over in Washington until in April when the Daughters of the American Revolution will hold their annual congress, for many of the Mothers are also Daughters and the Capital will thus not be deprived entirely of the spiritual influence and protection of these women organized as societies for the prevention and promotion of everything.

The sessions of the Mother's Congress here have been most successful. A number of speakers of National reputation have addressed them, the feature, of course, of the Congress being the address of president Roosevelt which has been quoted broadcast in this country and Europe. The French and German Ambassadors and the Japanese Minister have addressed the convention and given descriptions of the conditions affecting children in their country.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, laid bare in the Senate on Thursday the details of a plot which the Democrats describe as sensational regarding Santo Domingan affairs. He held the floor of the Senate all day and went into minute details regarding the alleged scheme of William Nelson Cromwell, of New York, to make the United States a party to the treaty by which private citizens would obtain certain valuable concessions, in San Domingo, and which, without the guarantee of this country, would be worthless Mr. Morgan asserted that the plot had been revealed to him by Mrs. Reeder a young woman from Alabama, who with her husband had been operating as international speculators and whose business consisted in obtaining concessions in the South American Republic for railroads, power plants, etc. Mr. Morgan alluded several times to a "treaty" between the United States and San Domingo which had been drawn for the benefit of the Reeders, but finally when it had been called for and read to the Senate the Republicans of that body declared that the whole disclosure was a fiasco and that Mr. Cromwell, who is alleged to have operated with the Reeders, was a man of the highest moral and financial standing. Mr. Morgan, nevertheless, maintained that if an investigation were made it would disclose the fact that Mr. Cromwell had grants for all concessions of any consequence in Santo Domingo and that it was he who would be found responsible for all of the influence in favor of the Uniten States taking charge of the finances of that country and thus making good his grants.

In any case and whether or not Mr. Morgan was justified in his revelations of a plot against this government the Santo Domingan treaty is dead and beyond power of revival at this session. Despite the fact that there were not enough votes to ratify it there was a resembling of the Republicans who had left for their homes. Senators Lodge, Kittridge and Senator Dolliver were back in their seats Thursday and Senator Lodge was ready with a speech in support of the treaty, but he could not get the floor. It is thought that nothing could be accomplished by prolonging the session of the Senate and it is probable that when this letter reaches you the Senators will have folded their tents.

Plays Over Grave on St. Patrick's Morn.

Following his custom for half a dozen years past, Alvah O. Schaeffer, cornetist of Reading, went to the grave of his friend, Thomas Hannahoe, in the Catholic cemetery, at midnight Thursday night and played "Nearer, My God to Thee" and "The Lass of Gowery." Mr. Hannahoe was one of Reading's most unique characters and for years was known as the "Mayor of Irishtown." He was a musician of more than ordinary ability. Several years before his death he entered into a compact with Schaeffer that the survivor should play the two selections mentioned over the grave of the one who died first, each year at the hour of the ushering in of St. Patrick's day.

AFTER 34 YEARS.

The wise buyer is "posted" in what he buys and where to buy. 34 years of unquestioned ascendence. 34 years of steady improvement in quality and workmanship. 34 years of constant increase in sales and still growing. This is the record of Schofield's harness factory. (Are there any who will deny the above?) Three first class workmen kept busy all winter, making heavy and light harness. Our stock is complete in farm, tug, buggy, spring wagon and light double driving harness. Our chain harness this year are cheaper and better than ever. We have a large assortment of fine tug bridles, made in different styles.

We Invite You To Call

and examine our goods and get prices. Don't pay the price for old harness when you can buy new for the same money. Don't ask us to compete with inferior made goods, as we use only the best material and employ first class workmen.

We have over six hundred dollars worth of collars, ranging in price from two to four dollars. Don't fail to see these goods before buying. Yours truly, for your trade.

Edward C. McKinley is a candidate for the nomination of Recorder from Boggs township, Bald Eagle Valley. We think our valley deserves some recognition on the ticket and you republicans will not make any mistake by giving him the nomination. He canvassed the county four years ago and has made many warm friends. We have conversed with different voters regardless to politics and find him worthy of the nomination and election. Give him your support and you will help a poor man along.

Centre Hall.

In my last week's communication I spoke of the sad affliction that had befallen Henry Homan of this place. On Saturday last, he had a second stroke and before night his soul had passed into the great beyond. In his death our community loses a citizen who was liked by all whom he came into contact, He was interred on Wednesday 22nd at Farmer's Mills. He is survived by his widow and several children, most of whom are filling responsible positions in different parts of the state.

On last Friday ex-sheriff John Spangler suffered a stroke of paralysis, but at present is slowly recovering. His sons Howard and Reuben, and grandson John VanPelt, were sent for and soon were at his bedside.

Harry Bailey, W. H. Stewart and S. E. Weber of Boalsburg, and Howard Rossman of Spring Mills were in town on Monday evening. It was the meeting night ofone of the lodges.

Mrs. Phil. Barrow, of Jersey Shore, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Packer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harleman returned to their home Wednesday, after spending the winter with their son Rufus at Avis.

Harvey Robb, of Lock Haven, was a visitor in our town Thursday.

About 70 people gave Mrs. O. Kunes a pleasant surprise Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Quigley, after spending the winter with their children at Punxsutawney and DuBois, returned home last week.

Business Men to Form a Base Ball Association.

A movement is on foot to form a base ball league in the nearby towns, composed entirely of business men and to play a series of games during the coming season for the championship, says the Lock Haven Express. The towns comprising the league thus far are Jersey Shore, Williamsport, Bellefonte and Lock Haven. Jersey Shore has already organized and expended $500 in grounds and paraphernalia and Williamsport and Bellefonte will follow soon.

An organization was effected in Lock Haven Thursday afternoon when a number of the athletic inclined business men held a meeting and elected the following officers:

L. W. Medes, traveling salesman, manager; John C. Saiers, treasurer, and George S. Morrison, captain. Mr. Morrison is manager of the Bell Telephone company of Lock Haven and is a thorough base ball man, having played for several seasons with the Lancaster club.

The Lock Haven club will go into active practice as soon as the weather permits and will have their opening game with Jersey Shore on the grounds of the latter. The merchants of that place will make a gala day of the occasion and close their places of business for the afternoon. Manager Medes would be pleased to hear from any of the clubs in the county or nearby towns outside of the league who desire dates with the Lock Haven club.

A Successful Pastorate.

Rev. George D. Penepacker, D. D., of the Trinity M. E. church, Philipsburg, Sunday closed up a most successful three years pastorate, and departed on Tuesday morning to attend the annual session of conference which meets at Berwick on Thursday. It is expected that the conference will return the Dr. to his present charge, the official board having passed a series of resolutions endorsing most heartily his work and asking that he be sent back for another year. The church at Philipsburg has never had a more earnest, devoted, fearless, uncompromising, brilliant and pains-taking and successful pastor, it is gratifying that the people generally appreciate his work and are anxious that he be re-appointed by the "powers that be."—Philipsburg Journal.

A Birthday Surprise Party.

A very delightful day was spent at the home of Emanuel Garbrick, of Zion, last Friday, March 17th. It was Mr. Garbrick's 60th birthday anniversary and his family decided to give him a pleasant surprise. The weather was perfect and early that morning Mr. Garbrick was taken away from home by a neighbor, "to attend to some business up the valley." Upon his return near the noon hour he found his house filled with friends, his stable and yard filled with horses and carriages. The surprise was complete and greatly enjoyed by all. Many of the friends brought useful presents for their host and among them was a gold watch from his wife.

After the entire party, numbering about 100, had a group picture taken, all were invited in to partake of a royally good dinner. The bill of fare was all that the appetite could wish and an abundance of good things filled the several large tables. Later Mr. Garbrick's pastor made a brief address, bearing the congratulations of the guests to their host and extending his thanks to the many guests for their presence as well as their kind words of congratulation and gifts. The following is a list of the persons present,:

"HOME FOR FRIENDLESS CHILDREN"

To The Borough Councils of Tyrone and Bellefonte and the People of Said Boroughs.

It is a matter of public interest that at a special meeting of the Tyrone Council, and the regular meeting of the Bellefonte Council, both held Monday evening. The joint committee of said councils recommended the acceptance of the provisions of the will of the late E J. Pruner of Tyrone, whereby the "E. J. Pruner Home for Friendless Children" will be established at Bellefonte, to be maintained by the income from certain properties and legacies as set forth in the will,

The Councils are to be congratulated upon the vigorous manner in which their committees have taken this matter up, with the result of their investigation ready in the form of a recommendation of acceptance.

That the Councils will embody the recommendations in an ordinance of acceptance is beyond doubt, for ever if the institution should be small at first, it would still fill its purpose in a degree.

The proper training of one child in this formative period may result in incalculable good, or at least prevent untold misery and harm.

Let me state, in passing, that while I know but little of the early training of the men who are now under the death watch in the Bellefonte jail, the probability is that the early years of their lives were not spent under proper training, and now these men are to be executed after having wrought death and disaster and great expense to the county.

Is that all? No: Green leaves a wife and child, now living in Tyrone, the subject of charity.

The child was conceived during the very period of the fathers crimes and born since his incarceration.

Talk of environment and fate, and the sins of the father upon the children. Here is a pitiable prospect.

May we not hope that even this child may someday find a friendly shelter in this home you are about to establish.

I am glad to learn that the provision is ample to care for a goodly number from the very start. Many institutions are maintaining children at a cost of one dollar per week for each child.

Having made some little investigation and study of Charities and Institutions, he writer desires to suggest a few points which may aid in guiding the Councils in their proceedings touching this matter.

First, a proper resolution or ordinance should be passed accepting the provisions of the will and giving the solicitors authority to secure to the Corporations of Tyrone and Bellefonte a proper transfer of all properties as provided.

Second, an ordinance providing for the election or appointment by Councils, of a Board of Managers, with rules as to the conduct of said managers in handling the property and finances of the institution.

I would suggest that not more than three managers be chosen from each town and that two would be even better and less expensive as they will be required to go back and forth occasionally, when there are three on a committee, the third man often finds that the others will attend to matters without him and does not bother himself, knowing that they are a majority.

Small committees do best work. These managers should be chosen from the citizenship regardless of Council membership.

An occasional member of Council may be found well fitted for this office, but it does not necessarily follow that because a man is well qualified for Council and the administration of public affairs; that he is also fitted to manage a "Home for Friendless Children."

Select men in or under middle life, who have families of their own, Dr. Osler's comments seem to fit this case if no other for if these men are well chosen, they may give many years of efficient service by being continued from year to year.

They should be elected for a term of one year. The well qualified men can be retained and the institution need not on the other hand be embarrassed by keeping a man who is of no real service.

The managers should elect a President, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Treasurer should give a bond of not less than $5000 and be held responsible for the proper accounting for of all funds of the institution.

His bond should cover the accounting for rents even though he should employ a second party as collector. He should also have general oversight of the properties, under bond for his fidelity, and should be properly compensated for his services.

The actual expenses of the other managers should be met from the income also, and they should be required to make detailed reports to the several Councils every six months.

They should not be restricted by too many rules in their conduct of the Home. Its needs will appeal to them and they will be competent to meet the needs as they appear.

The Home should be plain and comfortable in its appointments and should be presided over by a matron of good judgment, resolute and firm, yet withal of a sympathetic and kindly disposition. In a word a motherly matron.

To be called to such a position should be regarded as a public recognition of the highest qualities of womanhood.

She should have one or more house maids as the home may require.

She should be given the entire management of the house, seeing that the children are properly fed and comfortably clothed.

The children should attend the public schools and their religious training should be from the Bible, without regard to denominational lines.

Trusting that the institution may prove a great blessing to many children who would otherwise be outcasts and a burden to society.

I thank you for your kindly reading.

CHARITY.

AN ORDINANCE.

An ordinance accepting the provisions of the last will and testament of Edward J. Pruner, deceased, and accepting the bequests of property in said last will and testament made jointly to the borough of Tyrone and the borough of Bellefonte for the purpose of establishing a Home for Friendless Children in the said borough of Bellefonte.

Be it ordained and enacted by the council of the borough of Bellefonte in council assembled and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same.

SECTION 1. That the borough of Bellefonte does hereby accept the provisions of the last will and testament of Edward J. Pruner, deceased, and the bequests of property in the said last will and testament made to the borough of Tyrone and the borough of Bellefonte for the establishment and maintenance of a Home for Friendless Children in the said borough of Bellefonte.

SECTION 2. Be it further ordained and enacted that the president of Council appoint, and he is hereby authorized and directed to appoint two members of council, who with himself and the borough solicitor shall constitute a committee who shall arrange at the earliest possible time to meet a similar committee from the borough of Tyrone for the purpose of preparing a proper ordinance for the due establishment, conduct and management of said Children's Home in accordance with the provisions of the will of the said Edward J. Pruner, deceased; said ordinance to be presented to council for its consideration not later than the first Monday of May next. That said committee be authorized in conjunction with the committee from the borough of Tyrone, to appoint some suitable person to temporarily care for the properties, devised in said will and collect all rents due from tenants therein until such time as a proper committee or board of managers may be appointed by the joint action of the said boroughs.

SECTION 3. It is further ordained that a copy of this ordinance be filed with the Fidelity Trust Company of Philadelphia, Pa., the executor of the last will and testament of said Edward J. Pruner, and that the borough solicitor file a properly certified copy thereof with the clerk of the Orphans' Court of Centre county.

Ordained and enacted into an ordinance, at a regular meeting of council held the 20th day of March, A.D., 1905.

W. R. JENKINS,

Attest:
Wm. T. KELLY,
Secretary.

The above ordinance read and approved this 21st day of March A.D., 1905.

APRIL ARBOR DAYS.

The Governor Has Issued Proclamation.

The Forestry Reservation Commission of Pennsylvania have secured, up to the present time, seven hundred and eight thousand, seven hundred and ninety-five acres of land, and are engaged in the work of restoration and preservation of our forests. Every good citizen ought to give them encouragement and material assistance by supplementing their efforts. Men, women and children alike may plant trees and many places now bare and barren may be made beautiful and useful. The growth of trees is conducive to both health and profit.

In order that all our citizens may take part in this pleasant and praise worthy duty, I, Samuel W. Pennypacker, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the law, do hereby designate and proclaim Friday, April 14, and Friday, April 28, 1905, to be observed as Arbor Days throughout the Commonwealth.

Two days are designated for the observance of this duty. Inasmuch as the climate conditions may render one of these days more favorable for the purpose intended than the other, the selection between them is left with the citizens of the various stations of Commonwealth.

A Booming Telephone Company.

The Huntingdon and Clearfield Telephone company has sent notices to their subscribers calling attention to the fact that they are offering long distance toll service with Altoona, Johnstown, Tyrone, Bellefonte Lock Haven, Jersey Shore, Williamsport and intermediate points. In the wonderful success of this company Bellefonte can boast of a certain degree of pride, owing to the fact that Judge Ellis L. Orvis, of this place, is the president; Wilbur F. Malin the general superintendent, O. C. Campbell, superintendent of construction, while most every position of any impartance is filled by a Bellefonter. Organized only about two years ago the company's growth has been marvelous. Since that time they have erected nearly 500 miles of poles, strung over 2,000 miles of copper wire, established nine central exchanges and installed 1,700 telephones in Centre, Clearfield and Huntingdon counties, and it is gratifying to know that the capital invested is in the main local.

Raw or Inflamed Lungs.

Yield quickly to the wonderful curative and healing qualities of Foley's Honey and Tar. It prevents pneumonia and consumption from a hard cold settled on the lungs. For sale by C. M. Parrish.

They Desire His Return

The highest compliment to be paid to any minister of the gospel or other public man is to have the people appreciate his work and worth by some acknowledgement of the same. To this end the members of the Quarterly conference of the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal church have signed a petition which will be presented to Presiding Elder, Rev. J. Ellis Bell of the Altoona District and the bishop who will preside at the Central Pennsylvania Conference, requesting the return of Rev. John A. Wood, Jr., to this charge. The petition states that this move on the part of the Quarterly Conference composed of the officials of the church is in recognition of the high Christian charater, ability, fitness and worth of their beloved brother and pastor, Rev. Wood. It also makes mention of his kindly and faithful ministration and thus they believe that for the good and welfare of the stations along all lines he should be returned.

Dangers of Pneumonia.

A cold at this time it neglected is liable to cause pneumonia which is so often fatal, and even when the patient has recovered the lungs are weakened, making them peculiarly susceptible to the development of consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar will stop the cough, heal and strengthen the lungs and prevent pneumonia. For sale by C. M. Parrish.

New Shops at Avis.

From a semi-official source the Jersey Shore Herald has it that as soon as the frost is all out of the ground work will be commenced on the foundations for the New York Central's truck tank and boiler shop, which will occupy a site just this side of the big transfer table, where the base ball ground was located.

Arrangements are being made to provide quarters for the civil engineers, who are to have this work in charge and the office building will likely be started at an early date.

The truck, tank and boiler shop, as it appears in the original plan of the shop buildings, is a structure as large as the present erecting shop, the dimensions being 564x138x50 feet.

If the building is erected as originally intended it will be a wonderful addition to the local plants and hundreds of additional men could be put at work.

John Crabb "Coon Hunter."

"I wonder why so many old-fashioned books were so small," said a lounger in the second-hand bookstore, fondling the pretty little gilt-tooled, fawn-colored volume.

"Because in the old days men wanted to carry books around with them; they thirsted for knowledge, and read whenever they had a bit of time," said the book-dealer. "Don't you remember the big, old-fashioned sack coats men wore, with great square, baggy pockets at the sides? John Crabb used to wear a big coat like that; and the pockets were always sagged down with little books like these. He used to be seen riding along in the woods and reading as he rode."

"And who was John Crabb?" the visitor inquired.

"John Crabb? Oh, he was one of the wisest men of the town—and a great coon hunter. His first start in life was made by coon hunting. When he was married—he used to tell—he wore a coonskin cap, paid a coonskin for the license and paid the preacher with a coonskin. In the early Louisville directories his name appears: "John Crabb, merchant, resides 205 Sixth St., between Chestnut and Prather." All old residents can recall John Crabb, notable for his good influence and wise sayings. I could fill a boob with the wisdom of John Crabb An old fellow-hunter and admirer of Mr. Crabb once said he would like to write his epitaph, to read in this wise:

He clum a tree by the light of the moon,
And made his fortune by the skin of the coon.

A Simple Remedy for Acquiring Hard Muscles and a Sound Body.

A number 12 bore gun when loaded with three drams of powder will send a load of shot further and shoot harder than if double this amount of powder is used.

If too much powder is used, all of it will not explode until it leaves the muzzle of the gun.

That portion which does not explode at the proper time, interferes with the direction, and checks the velocity or force of the shot.

Hard muscles and a strong body do not depend on the quantity of food, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation.

If the nutrient properties of all of the food that may be eaten are appropriated by the blood and tissues, the muscles of the body will grow harder and stronger, whether you eat much or little.

You may be well, but not strong. What you want is strength,—physical force.

You do not have to be sick to need Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.

Thousands of men and millions of women have need for just what Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will do for them.

A little Kodol after meals, will enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate every atom of all of the wholesome food that may be eaten.

It will do more.

It will enable the stomach to extract from the food all its nutrient properties, and contribute the same to the blood.

It will enable the blood to circulate freely and deposit a full quota of this tissue-building and strength-giving material into every nook, corner, muscle and fibre of your whole being.

The result is perfect strength.

And perfect health.

Disease cannot lay hold on the man or woman whose physical condition is thus fortified. Recommended by Green's Pharmacy Co.

Give Your Stomach a Rest.

Your food must be properly digested and assimilated to be of any value to you. If your stomach is weak or diseased take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach a rest, enabling it to recuperate, take on new life and grow strong again. Kodol cures sour stomach, gas, bloating, heart palpitation and all digestive disorders. L. A. Soper, of Little Rock, Ky., writes us: "We feel that Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but of course she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

How They Settled.

While two bulldogs were chewing each other to pieces at Swede and Lafayette streets in Norristown the other day Mrs. William Henry tried to stop the fight with a bucket of water. The splashing of the water scared a horse standing along the sidewalk, and the animal ran away. Two men who had been watching the dog fight started after the runaway and caught the horse. The owner of the team paid one of the captors of the horse 50 cents, and because he would not divide the cash the two fought, and finally compromised by buying whisky and drinking to each other's health.

Doctor Domehead.

Old Doctor Domehead, of "science simplified";
He couldn't build a hencoop, by jingo, if he tried,
But dabbles deep in science—solves mighty problems, and
Each week instructs his class of three, "But—on the other hand—"

If you have the blues, consult old "Doc" Domehead; if fortune has frowned on you, consult "Doc" Domehead; if SHE has failed to smile, consult "Doc" Domehead. He is an advocate of the Simple Life, and his specialty is "Science Made Simple." He will make you laugh in spite of yourself, and will cure all your ills with the antics of himself and his class.

Doctor Domehead's class has taken the leading position in the Philadelphia Sunday North American's Comic Supplement.

You will get more fun out of these pictures than you ever had in your life out of a funny paper.

It is a new comic page that is really funny—a page with a laugh in every line.

With the old Doctor are Phoebe Ann, a scientific maiden; a fourteen-carat cut-up, whose name is Dennis, and studious Walter Longlegs—he's a "yes sir" proposition—who, as the class, add to the gaiety of every situation.

The Doctor knows his business; he shows that at the start—"but on the other hand" there you get right down to the point, and as the wily press agent is wont to declare, the point "must be seen to be appreciated," and to appreciate it thoroughly you should become one of the Doctor's patients at once.

Womelsdorff Has Backbone.

Hon. P. E. Womelsdorff, of Centre, and the little coterie of legislators who stood by their convictions on the personal registration bill, as shown by the following article taken from Tuesday's North American, with a strong tide against them, deserve the fullest measure of credit:

"Representative John O. Sheatz, of Philadelphia, made an unsuccessful effort to force out of the Elections Committee the bill for personal registration in cities, which was introduced early in the session, and which the committee is under orders to smother. The bill was referred to the City Passenger Railway Committee, which has a reputation for burying everything that goes to it.

"As Mr. Sheatz had made no effort to conceal his intent one in this matter, the "Organization" was prepared for his resolution. "Iron-clad orders" were issued to stand by the committee, and so well is the House in hand that only four Republicans dared to join eleven Democrats in support of the resolution.

"The four were: Sheatz, of Philadelphia; Boulton, of Clearfield; Watkins, of Lackawanna, and Womelsdorff, of Centre.

"Various members of the House say privately that they would have voted for the resolution but for the fact that they had been notified that if they did so the appropriations to their home hospitals and charitable institutions would be cut. The action of Tuesday night seals the fate of personal registration for two years."

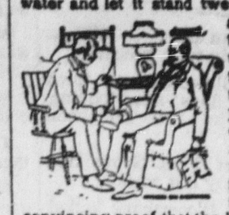
Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.



What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. PARDON BOARD GRANTS STAY

Greason Case Goes Back to Berks County

ALSO KATE EDWARDS

Similar Action Taken in Her Case—Executive Clemency Recommended for Philadelphia Murderer.

OTHER NEWS EVENTS OF THE DAY

Harrisburg, March 16.--The Pennsylvania Supreme Court having decided Tuesday to send the case of Samuel Greason, colored, under sentence of death in Reading for the murder of John Edwards in 1901, back to the Berks county court, the Board of Pardons Tuesday granted a continuance in his case and also in that of Mrs. Kate Edwards, white, who is also condemned for the same crime.

Greason and Mrs. Edwards had been sentenced to be hanged on February 16, but on February 15 attorneys for Greason appeared before the Board of Pardons and submitted evidence to the effect that Mrs. Edwards had confessed that Greason was innocent of the crime of killing her husband. The Board thereupon reprieved Greason so that his case could be further investigated, the reprieved Mrs. Edwards in order that she may be used as a witness in Greason's behalf. Nothing has been done looking toward a new trial for the condemned woman, and after the Greason case is disposed of by the Berks county court her application for a commutation of sentence will be acted upon by the Board of Pardons. That tribunal has twice refused to commute her sentence.

Both Greason and Mrs. Edwards have listened to the reading of the death warrant ten times and both have been under the eyes of death watch for two years.

The board recommended a commutation of the death sentence of Lawrence Edward St. Clair Gibson, Philadelphia, to life imprisonment, and a pardon to Robert E. Reed, Allegheny, for forgery. The cases of Adam Tempa and Mike Grizzetti, Luzerne, aggravated assault and battery, were held under advisement.

Pardons were refused Max Rice, Allegheny, embezzlement; Jacob Stark, alias Jacob Hagey, Chester, enticing a minor; Stanley Mescal and John Bosdaidis, Luzerne, assault and battery; David Levine, Allegheny, selling liquor without license.

The applications of Charles Miles, Walter Obey and Charles Jackson, Allegheny, and Elijah Johnson, Philadelphia, for a commutation of death sentence to life imprisonment, were refused. The remainder of the cases on the calendar were continued.

Lehigh University Register.

The Register of Lehigh University, South Bethlehem, Pa., just issued, copies of which may be had on application shows the attendance of 630 students from 24 states and 8 foreign countries, the largest in the history of the institution. There are 56 in the teaching staff. 370 of the students are from Pennsylvania.

13 four-year courses of instruction are offered at the University: The Classical Course, the Latin-Scientific, Course, the courses in Civil, Mechanical, Marine, Metallurgical, Mining, Electrical and Chemical Engineering, Analytical Chemistry, Geology, Physics and Electrometallurgy.

A list of graduates of the University, with their present occupations, 1399 in number during the 39 years of its existence, indicates that this institution is exerting a marked influence on the industrial development of the United States and of foreign countries.

Provision is made for worthy and needy students whereby they may postpone payment of tuition until after graduation.

JUDGE M'CLURE'S OPINION.

Renders a Decision That Defines Rights of Telephone Companies.

In the suit in equity in the court of common pleas of Snyder county by the United Telephone and Telegraph Co., against Chas. Hower, of Selinsgrove, Judge McClure last Thursday filed a final decree upon the exceptions by the plaintiff to the findings and decree of the court filed several months ago. The following are the salient parts of the decree: The plaintiff is ordered to remove its poles from the lands of the defendant outside the highway to points within the highway; also the portions of the cross arms which extend upon his land outside the highway, and to tender security to Hower in 30 days for the damage sustained by him in the constructson and maintenance of the telephone line upon the highway through his land. The plaintiff pays the cost of the proceeding. The telephone company ran its line through Hower's land, claiming the right of eminent domain. Under the above decision the company has no right to use private land unless by consent of the owner or unless it pays for the privilege

SHAD IN THE SUSQUEHANNA.

The United States Fish Commission Interested in Propagating the Fish.

Fish Commissioner Meehan and representatives of the United States fish commission met at the Torresdale fish hatchery, near Philadelphia, last week to inspect the capacity of the station for the propagation of shad, the federal commission offering to do the work at the station at its own expense. As a result of the inspection orders have been given to prepare for the commencing of the work by April 1. It is the intention of the federal commission to place in the Susquehanna any surplus shad it may have after supplying its station at Havre de Grace, and Columbia and Harrisburg have been agreed upon as the points where the shad will be placed in the river. At the present time all the surplus shad from the Harve de Grace station are placed in the river near that point, and go into Maryland waters. The state fish commission is now prepared to distribute application blanks for wall-eyed pike for the Susquehanna and Juniata revers.

A Severe Cold for Three Months.

The following letter from A. J. Nusbaum, of Batesville, Ind., tells its own story: "I suffered for three months with a severe cold. A druggist prepared me some medicine, and a physician prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I then tried Foley's Honey and Tar, and eight doses cured me." Refuse substitutes. For sale by C. M. Parrish.

Man Shows Signs of Hydrophobia.

A young man, employed at Hannon's hotel at New Albany, near Towanda, is supposed to be afflicted with hydrophobia It has required five men to restrain him from violence when a fit was upon him. The man is 24 years of age and has been employed about the hotel for some time. On Wednesday evening of this week he was eating supper at the hotel when, in the act of putting a piece of bread in his mouth, he stiffened up as though he had been seized with paralysis. Mrs. Hannon spoke to him but he did not answer. His eyes stared straight ahead of him. This spell lasted but a short time and it was thought that the man might be suffering from over indulgence in liquor. He was able to do his work at the barn but later in the evening he was found unconscious on the porch of the hotel. He was carried to a room and placed on a bed, when he was seized with fits of extraordinary violence. The fits would first strike his limbs and they would twitch. Then it seized his hands and body. Then the man began to growl and with snarls seized the pillow in his teeth and shook it like a dog at play. During those fits five men had all they could do to quiet him. Dr. Burnley was called and gave him morphine, but Tuesday morning the fits continued and with even greater frequency.

Parties from New Albany stated that the man had been bitten by dogs on at least two occasions and that he bore the marks of a dog's teeth in his face. There have been a number of cases of rabies in dogs at New Albany within the past year or so but there are none at present.

Putting food into a diseased stomach is like putting money into a pocket with holes. The money is lost, All its value goes for nothing. When the stomach is diseased, with the allied organs of digestion and nutrition, the food which is put into it is largely lost. The nutriment is not extracted from it. The body is weak and the blood impoverished.

The pocket can be mended The stomach can be cured. That sterling medicine for the stomach and blood, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, acts with peculiar promptness and power on the organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a positive cure for almost all disorders of these organs, and cures also such disease of the heart, blood, liver and other organs, as have their cause in a weak or diseased condition of the stomach.

THE PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

The Pennsylvania Grangers Are First Citizens Then Farmers.

A prominent granger says: Pennsylvania Patrons of Husbandry are first citizens and then farmers. They recognize the fact that a mans first duty is to the state. To preserve its existence the state will take not only his property but even his life and none count the claim unreasonable. This claim of the state being admitted, the first concern of all should be for the general good. None have more confidence in the good intentions and intelligence of the great majority of the people of the country than the members of the grange. They are satisfied that the interests of the farmers will not suffer when fully made known to the public. The unequal burden of taxation upon real estate and the unjust discriminations against farmers were not laid upon them by the will and intention of the majority. They will accept government of the people, by the people, through the initiative and referendum without any misgivings.

A Newspaper That Speaks Out.

On February 2 The Pittsburg Times was 25 years old. Its owners claim that its undiminished popularity is demonstrated by the fact that it has a larger circulation than any other morning paper in Pittsburg. During the past few years it has attracted a great deal of attention by the frankness with which it has discussed subjects of public interest. Whenever there is before the people some question of absorbing importance newspaper readers are on the qui vive to know what The Times has to say, and what The Times says is right to the point. It hews to the line. That, however, is only one of the merits claimed for it by its publishers. Its general news service is comprehensive and complete. It is accurate in its financial department and up-to-date on its sporting page. Its serial stories are by the best modern authors. It pays especial attention to the news and views of all the churches, and in this respect has won the admiration of the best people. Its editorial page is a daily feast of the best and brightest thought. It endeavors to avoid the "yellow" and caters only to the people of the home and the family. It has no Sunday issue. Six cents a week, $3 a year.

New Fads for Ladies.

When the spring shirtwaist first appears this year the starched linen collar will introduce itself again as a new fashion. And the girl who can wear the stiff collar will put it on and be conscious that she looks her best. At the same time, the women whose necks are too short and too fat for this severe kind of collar are in no way compelled to wear it to be in style, for the collar, like all the other smart little dress touches these days, is always suited to the individual wearer. The soft, old-fashioned little ruchings of liese and mull continue to be the vogue, and very dainty stocks are made of fine linen or silk embroidered in baby ribbons. These ribbon-embroidered stocks are very charming to wear with the lingerie waists. One of sheer white linen recently made by a smart girl of distinction had the stock portion of the linen, with the ribbon embroidered in little sprays of pink and white sweet peas, with here and there a faint green leaf made of ribbon. In front the stock came to a slight point, and from this point a cluster of sweet peas dangled. They, too, were made of ribbon.

A Suggestion of Wealth.

J. D. Rockefeller, whose income is now said to be fifty millions a year, is reputed to be worth six hundred millions of dollars, and if he lives a few years longer and continues to exercise the business prudence that has marked his whole life, it is believed that he will be the first billionaire the world has ever seen. Financially: Mr. Rockefeller, is the world's greatest potentate. The Czar of Russia enjoys an annual income of about $12,000,000; Emperor William, as King of Prussia, receives a little less than $4,000,000; the Emperor of Austria-Hungary, $3,875,000; King Edward, $2,225,000, and the King of Spain $200,000. King John, Emperor of Oil, King of Steel, Banking and Railroads and Prince of several dominions of less importance, can buy and sell them all.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE above picture of the man and fish is the trademark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the synonym for strength and purity. It is sold in almost all the civilized countries of the globe.

If the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Fire escapes were last week put on the Bellefonte Academy.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hering celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their home in Spring Mills Friday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Naginey gave a card party Friday evening at which thirty or more of their friends were present.

—Councilman P. F. Keichline is able to be about again after suffering an attack of the grip which confined him to the house for several days.

—Rev. H. C. Holloway filled the Presbyterian pulpit Sunday evening. He preached a very interesting and practical sermon

—The Canada Concert Co's. entertainment for the Methodist Church benefit, was very well attended. About $35 was realized by that congregation.

—The many friends of Miss Julia McCafferty, the efficient tailoress with Jacob Gross will be sorry to learn that she is seriously ill at her home on east Lamb tsreet.

—MARRIED—Arthur C. Colyer and Miss Annie S. Harnish, both of Hecla Park, were married Thursday at 11 o'clock by Rev. H. C. Holloway, D. D., at the Lutheran parsonage at this place.

—Rev. Clarence E. Taylor pastor of the Baptist church, at East Brady, Pa., has accepted the call of the Tyrone Baptist church to become its pastor, commencing May 1, 1905.

—The robins and blue birds are again with us. These sure harbingers of approaching spring are often caught by severe weather and a large number perish with cold. We hope no such fate may meet these welcome little arrivals this spring.

—M. L. Gardner has rented a room in the Masonic temple, on Allegheny street, where he will open up an office as his head-quarters as general superintendent of the Nittany Valley railroad. He has also accepted the agency for several standard insurance companies.

—The W. C. T. U., is preparing a surprise for the people of Bellefonte in an entertainment they propose to give in Petrikin Hall on the evening of April 27. They don't want to tell us what it is but they promise us something great. Public interest in the matter is on the qui vive and everybody is wondering what it will be.

—There is an old saying that a peck of March dust is worth its weight in gold. The meaning of this is obvious to farmers who dread a wet spring. If the winds of March dry the roads and the soil of the fields before plowing, then the harvest is assured, or nearly so.

—A Missouri man who has yet to be shown, prints the following: "Early to bed and early to rise, does very well for sick folks and guys, but it makes a man miss all the fun till he dies and joins the stiffs that have gone to the skies. Go to bed when you please and lie at your ease, you'll die just the same of some Latin disease."—Ex.

—Nothing is known as yet to where the national guard will camp next summer or in what order. Under the old scheme pursued in the years gone by the camps will be brigade and the Third brigade will in all probability camp at beautiful Mt. Gretna, but there has been considerable talk the past year about doing away with the brigade camps and of making Gettysburg a permanent camp ground.

—A mill for the manufacture of keg heads, etc., employing twenty hands, at Huntingdon, was destroyed by fire very early Tuesday morning, the loss being estimated at $25 000, with $6,000 insurance. Two buildings, all the machinery 7,000 feet of piping, 180,000 keg heads, etc., were destroyed. The plant was owned by the Walsh Manufacturing company, of Pittsburg. They had decided a few weeks ago to move their plant to West Virginia, and it is hardly probable that the mill will be rebuilt at Huntingdon.

—Nixon & Zimmerman's company in Miss Bob White entertained a large crowd at Garman's opera house Thursday night, in spite of the fact that it was Lent. It was a fine attraction and every one was delighted and pleased with it. The company was even stronger than when it was here before. Frank Deshon and J. L. McClure were as funny as ever in the parts of the millionaire tramps. Miss May Phelps made a splendid Bob White, she was suffering however from a severe cold. Miss Alice Benson was a sweet Golden rod and the company throughout was all that could be desired.

—Mrs. W. C. Patterson, of State College, is recovering from her recent attack of pneumonia.

—Misses Annie and Rebecca Lyon have moved to the Bush House where they will reside for the present.

—Foley's Honey and Tar cures the cough caused by attack of la grippe. It heals the lungs. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

—Samuel R. Neade a minister in the society of Friends will be present at Friends meeting Sunday next at 11 o'clock.

—Mrs. Edward R. Chambers is confined to her home on East Linn street, suffering with a severe attack of La grippe.

—James Toner will move his livery stable April 1st from the Bush House stable to his old location on South Water street.

—Prof. J. Angel, the well known Williamsport eye specialist is in town this week and is at the Brockerhoff House. Anyone needing his services can drop a card and he will call at their homes.

—Mrs. S. D. Ray who was operated on in St. Luke's Hospital last Monday for the removal of an abscess which was forming in her breast, is gradually recovering. She will return home in several weeks.

—Reports from various cities and towns throughout the state show that we are having a general spring freshet. At many places there has been a rise in the rivers of from thirteen to eighteen feet above low water mark.

—Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage of Mr. Ben Alexander, of Madera to Miss Jennie Dale, of McCartney, both well known young people, to take place on Thursday, March 30th, at 11:30 a. m.

—Word has been received here of the death of Aleck Whiteman which occurred quite suddenly at his home in Chicago, Illinois, on Sunday. He was a former resident of Bellefonte and his many friends here will be sorry to learn of his death.

—On April first the Bellefonte Furnace company will move their offices from their present location in Temple Court out to the furnace, where they will establish permanent headquarters for the future. The Central Railroad of Pennsylvania will still retain their offices on the third floor of Temple Court.

—McCalmont & Co. will have their first annual public sale of farm implements, etc., at their ware house near the old glass works site, on Saturday, April first. This is an innovation in this line and will undoubtedly prove a popular move. Preparations are being made for a large attendance of farmers from all over the country.

—Miss Rebecca Lyon is arranging to give a grand concert in Bellefonte on the evening of the 25th of April. It promises to be something extraordinary fine. She has arranged to bring two lady musicians here from Philadelphia, one a violinist and the other a soprano singer and in addition local talent will take part. It will be under the auspices of the Board of Lady Managers of the Hospital.

—Prof. John Meyer, principal of the High School, is preparing a catalogue of the High School. The object is to give those who wish to enter the High School an idea of what is necessary for entrance, and also to make those who wish to know what is being done, more thoroughly acquainted with the prescribed course. This custom is followed by all colleges, and by some preparatory schools throughout the U. S. The catalogue will be issued before the close of the present term.

—The many friends of Elwood G. Mateer, who a year or so ago was collector for the Pennsylvania Telephone company here, will be glad to learn that he has been given another deserved promotion, being sent to Bloomsburg as manager for the Pennsylvania Telephone company. The district includes Bloomsburg, Berwick, Danville and Catawissa. Mr. Mateer has been most efficient as manager and his transfer comes as a reward for meritorious work.

—The Modern Woodmen of America at their regular meeting, Monday evening, initiated 40 new members in the order. The State College initiating team, consisting of about fifteen men were here and put the boys through in elegant style. Refreshments were served after the meeting. There were visiting members present from Altoona, Tyrone, Philipsburg and Millheim. There will be about 40 or 50 more initiated at their next meeting.

—Robert Lyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lyon, of this place, recently resigned his position with the Pittsburg Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad to accept a better place with the Hagan Manufacturing company, of Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y., the largest manufacturers of laundry machinery in the country. Last week, as a representative of the Hagan company, he attended a convention of manufacturers in Cleveland and one evening the shop men over which he had formerly presided, corralled him and presented him with a handsome gold watch and chain as a testimonial of their regard.

—The Clearfield County Home farm produced $6,498,62 worth of produce last year.

—The services in the Episcopal Church Tuesday evening were conducted by Rev. Alexander Dewitt of Muncy. He and Rev. Brown were guests of Mr. Frank Montgomery at dinner Tuesday evening.

—On Monday night, between twelve and one o'clock, the residents of East Howard street, were awakened by two boistrous intoxicated fellows who broke into the home of John Morrison and tramped about the porches of several other houses. The marauders escaped without being captured or identified.

A Tribute to the Late Robert Valentine.

In the departure of our friend to his everlasting rest, I feel that I have lost not only a good christian brother but a very faithful and helpful friend. To me, Robert Valentine was a friend indeed.

I gladly witness to his christian friendship and kindness.

More than thirty years ago I called on him in behalf of my missionary work. A cheerful giver handing to me his generous offering, he said, "the children you are trying to benefit need it. I am glad to help you."

Not only to me, but to every one Robert Valentine was a friend indeed. I often visited his workmen and their families and I never heard from them any other expression than praise for Robert as they familiarly called him.

More than one of them has said to me, "I would at any time get up at midnight to help Robert out of trouble."

And for the very good reason that their employer was always ready and willing to relieve the trials of his workmen as far as possible.

What we all need more than anything else in this world is more of this Christian friendship and kindliness to be friends indeed in our treatment of each other, as in the case of our departed friend. Then there will also be ministered unto us "an abundant entrance into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."

March 17, 1905.

Death of Mrs. Susan Holter.

On Tuesday afternoon March 14, '05, Mrs. Susan Holter, wife of M. P. Holter, died at her home in Howard, after a lingering illness of that dreaded disease, consumption aged 54 years, six months and two days.

She was the daughter of Emanuel and Mary Ann Schenck, deceased, and is survived by a kind and devoted husband and five children as follows: Minnie, Mrs. Chauncey Pletcher, Charles, Samuel and James, of Howard, and one brother, John F. Schenck and one sister, Mrs. Irvin M. Lucas, of Howard township.

She bore her sufferings with much patience never murmuring or complaining, for she trusted in her Savior looking to Him as her counselor and guide. She was found daily reading and studying her bible.

She was a devoted wife, a loving mother and kind neighbor and will be greatly missed by her family and all who knew her, but their loss will be her gain. She was a consistent member of the United Evangelical church for many years and was always found at her place unless hindered by some some good cause. She was preceded to the grave some years ago by two sons, Albert and Herbert, who watch for her coming with outstretched arms to welcome her home to them, where she will be free of sorrow and care, and where meeting and parting shall be no more.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon from the United Evangelical church and was conducted by Rev. I. N. Bair, of Millheim. Interment in the Schenck cemetery.—Howard Hustler.

All Next Week at the Opera House.

Next week commencing Monday evening the opera house will be occupied by the Jeavon's Stock company, who open their engagement with John Banim's famous tragedy "Damon and Pythias."

The company is composed of clever people supporting Thos. and Irene Jeavons, on a repertoire of high class dramas, comedys, interspersed with the best vaudeville acts, and the staging and detail of their plays are the best, all special scenery being carried and used in every production.

Prices to suit all are announced, and ladies have the advantage of lady's tickets to the opening performance. A strong line of specialties will be given every evening and nothing omitted to make the engagement a complete success.

Mary C. Fetzer.

On March 20th, 1905, Mary C. Fetzer, a highly esteemed lady, passed from earthly scenes at the residence of her sister, Mrs. B. E. Yarnell, of Snow Shoe. The deceased was 47 years, 1 month and 4 days of age. She had been ill about 7 weeks. Her death is a cause of great sadness to many relatives and friends. For over 25 years she has been a devoted christian and active member of the Milesburg Baptist church. She died triumphant in the faith of the Christ whom she loved and served in life.

The following sisters and brothers survive her: Mrs. Hannah Fetzer, Yarnell, Mrs. B. E. Yarnell, Snow Shoe; Mrs. S. P. Bird, Holt's Hollow; Mrs. Annie Confer, Nantyglo; Geo. M. Fetzer, Runville, and Joseph M. Fetzer, Holt's Hollow.

Funeral services were held at the Messiah church near Milesburg on Wednesday morning, conducted by pastor, A. C. Lathrop, of Milesburg, assisted by Rev. Zeigler, of Wingate. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery. The bereaved family have the sympathy of many friends in this hour of sorrow.

Leroy Smith Hagerty.

Leroy Smith Hagerty, a highly esteemed young man, of Philipsburg, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hagerty, of that place, Sunday evening at 10:30 o'clock. Death was due to tuberculosis.

The deceased was born in Curwensville on February 26, 1885, and was consequently a little over twenty years of age. Nearly all his life was spent in Philipsburg. He was a young man whose attractive qualities won him many friends, and with his associates he was very much of a favorite. He will be greatly missed by the community generally, but certainly by the members of his own home, whose hearts surely bleed over the death of the one so dearly loved. Death is always sad, but particularly so when one is taken in the bloom of youth. About a year ago he connected himself with the Presbyterian church, and when the death Messenger came he was ready.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.
